Panel of three judges - Con't...

Tim Edberg

Tim is a former research physicist. He began his career in photography as a mostly self taught hobbyist. In 1995 he branched out as a freelance photographer and has done extremely well. Tim's work has been represented by four different galleries, two in California and two in the D.C. area. His works are displayed in over 100 private and corporate collections on 3 continents. Tim is also an educator of photography and teaches continuing education courses at Prince Georges Community College. Tim, enjoys discovering and creating beauty in all of its guises, such as portraits, architecture, abstracts, color and b/w.

Tim has judged for our club several times this year and is eagerly willing to judge for us again.

Field Trip to Huntley Meadows, Virginia -

October 28th. On a cool, clear day with the thermometer hovering around the 45 mark Howard Penn, Beth Penn, Dan Frame, Bei Ma, Peter Bachmann, Elizabeth Harris, Jean Friday, Mike Dulisse, Donna Bagdasian, Judy Atkins and Frank Maminski met at Severna Park Park and Ride and proceeded to Huntley Meadows in Virginia.

Huntley Meadows is a heavily wooded area surround a lake. The brochure states that great blue heron beavers, otters, deer, pied-billed grebes, wood ducks, yellow-crowned night heron and many songbirds make their home here. We did see great blue herons, white egrets and some birds. Unfortunately due to the lack of rain, the lake seemed to be smaller than it should be. In warmer weather wildflower-speckled meadows and wetlands form the largest natural area left in Fairfax County. The wild sanctuary is in Fairfax County, Virginia and is operated by the Fairfax County Park Authority.
